Shutterbugs enjoy Easter traditions in Alhaurin

THE Shutterbugs went along to the Good Friday parade in Alhaurin el Grande and were able to take photographs.

The narrow chair-lined streets of Alhaurin el Grande were filled with the music from the church army band. The soldiers' demonstrations throwing their rifles into the air and to each other were performed with perfect timing. Most pleasing for the members of the Shutterbugs was, they said, the amount of very young people participating in the parade, which almost certainly will ensure that the traditions continue.

Also, the group was able to photograph The Passion

Play which was sympathetically performed by the San Sebastian Church members who at the end of the play received a standing ovation.
