Shutterbugs shoot in city of Malaga

MALAGA City proved to be a perfect subject for the Shutterbugs Photographic Group's latest photo shoot 'Streets of Malaga.'

Members met in the morning before separating and making their way through the maze of streets with each person striving to get that special photograph which would be judged best of the month.

Although in close proximity, each area presented different photographic opportunities.

After a few hours members met at the Plaza de la Merced for lunch.

The Shutterbugs Photographic Group is a group of amateur photo enthusiasts who meet twice a month and has members with all levels of skills and their next photo shoot will be a much different task being a night shoot at the Benalmadena Marina.
